Description

It would be very helpful if Orangutan could help filling data in DotProject. The issues are: a) usernames and passwords are different and b) how to determine which DotProject task the user is working on. This should be done somehow... For a) we can ask user for his DotProject username. For b) we can just assume that user is working on his current DotProject task (if single) allowing to change this. Orangutan should calculate the percentage done (using spent time etc).
