Sorry, it's not clear... Just change status to all in administration. Or do you mean <http://<redmine.host.com>/projects?>

Yes, I meant <http://<redmine.host.com>/projects>

Technically it can be done but why?.. If done this will "break" the idea of archiving projects...

I guess this might actually be what I need. It could be a workaround.

What I really need is some categories support on `/projects`, ie, "Live projects", "Waiting Projects", "Stopped projects", "Dead projects", the order of these categories should also be customizable....

So I guess you can actually close this ticket :)

You can do something like this by adding a custom field... Let's name it "Status". You can define a list of possible values (list type). However as far as I know Redmine does not support project custom fields on project listing page...

Anyway I had a similar idea - see #1777 (in Projects I store some of plugin ideas). Perhaps will add some combo box on projects listing page... Vote for it if you like this idea (you can also watch and get notification if I start developing the plugin).

Thanks
