Description

Ruby developers reference to functions prepending the function name with #. So for developers it would be cool if syntax like #function_name generated the link to, e.g., http://apidock.com. Same can be done for other languages, e.g., for PHP: #php:appay_merge.

Also it would be great if we could integrate rDoc to reference also to project's functions.

The syntax can be conflicting with Twitter hash tags though...
