Description News are great! But they are site-wide (shown on the welcome page) and huge (at least they allow huge texts and I personally use this). There is the need of smaller activities. Thus, a project manager could write somewhere: Our project just hit 1000 downloads. This is too small message to make it news (it can be just a news title) and it's too important to be ignored. This can be implemented in the following way: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• On the project overview page a user clicks "Tell" and the form opens, or fills in the small form and clicks "Tell"</li><li>• The specified text (just text, without any subject) gets added to project activities as "talk".</li><li>• "Talks" should be sent by email and/or Twitter and be available under the Activities tab.</li></ul> P.S. The idea is very similar to Twitter so such plugin could integrate Twitter.
