Description

I'm adding a carousel/slider to show the input fields of interest step by step. Unfortunately redmine seems not support custom fields grouping natively.

Do you know a way to group fields?

Personally I'd like to be able to add a css class to a field too. Thus I could use proper selectors to rearrange the fields in a javascript (with the carousel).

Sounds like a feature for the Extended Fields plugin... By the way, I always felt it would be good to have such field for custom fields.

No other ways are known to me... Except, perhaps, just rewriting the view file.

Do you mind if I move this issue into Extended Fields?

You're the boss

If you move it leave a backreference to each other so that other people don't file a similar ticket in the future.
