Description

On this site I have many Redmine plugins (including this one) and would like to have a project custom field, which would allow to select supported Redmine versions... But the issue is that such field would be available for all projects and not only Redmine plugins (i.e., for Jabberd14 modules as well)!

The idea is to link project custom fields to the section (and its descendants) somehow... Not sure how to make this, but this would be a great improvement for Redmine!
