Description The ISSUE-id plugin adds the issue_id function, which is used to generate the featured id. Also the to_param function is used by Redmine to put the correct ID into links etc. The plugin also patches a lot of other native Redmine functions to replace native Redmine issue id with the featured one. This could be much easier , if Redmine came with a special function for displaying issue ids, which could be named, e.g., display_id! So when the plugin is released I need to make such suggestion to Redmine guys...
